Welcome. Spectral causality is, thus, obtained via a method proposed by Geweke, which is similar to performing a Fourier transform of the estimated autoregressive coefficients at specified frequencies, with frequency resolution specified by the model order more information on frequency domain causality can be found in Cohen, However, the lack of parameters is also an advantage in this respect as it might be possible to both apply filtering without affecting the underlying causality and obtaining a spectral representation of causality by bandpass filtering the data and applying C NPMR to the filtered data.
